THE VOICE FOR THE AFTERMARKET SUPPLIER INDUSTRY

Today's automotive aftermarket is a high-tech industry. Vehicles are becoming more and more sophisticated and quality has never been more important. Today's full service automotive aftermarket suppliers are creating the advanced technology and innovation needed for connected vehicles, as well as the training and support necessary to ensure these vehicles can be repaired by the independent aftermarket.

What is a full service supplier?

These suppliers can be identified by their innovation, their investment in research and development, their commitment to standing behind the products they supply, and their training provided to service professionals on the complex systems that keep the vehicles on our nation's roads and highways running safely and efficiently.

You will find the "best of the best" full service suppliers in the 2015 AASA Top 100 Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers List. The Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers Association (AASA), the light vehicle aftermarket division of the Motor & Equipment Manufacturers Association (MEMA), and Babcox Media have jointly produced this much-anticipated publication since 2003. It features the sought-after listings of top automotive aftermarket suppliers – product and brand information, and annual global aftermarket sales figures – and is an invaluable resource that is on the desks of the most senior executives in the industry.

The 2015 Top 100 Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers List also includes the second annual Technical Information Directory, the handy poster featuring the informational websites and technical phone numbers of the most trusted brands in the aftermarket. It is designed for service providers and counter professionals to post and keep handy as a reference tool throughout the year, enabling quick access to top brands' technical information and repair solutions.

AASA is proud to provide the Top 100 Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers List to the industry as an important part of its role as "The Voice for the Automotive Aftermarket Supplier Industry." AASA exclusively serves the suppliers of aftermarket components, tools and equipment, and related products which support 710,000 employees in the United States. AASA is a recognized industry change agent – promoting a collaborative industry environment, providing a forum to address issues and serving as a valued resource for members. AASA also promotes full service suppliers and the value of premium parts through its industry education and awareness campaign, Know Your Parts®. More information is at www.knowyourparts.com.

The AASA Top 100 Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers list is organized in two sections – the first section lists in numerical order the top 62 aftermarket suppliers ranked by their annual Global Automotive or North American aftermarket sales; the second section, organized alphabetically, includes 38 companies that are clearly among the top aftermarket suppliers, but for various reasons cannot provide the financials necessary for ranking. Those 38 companies listed alphabetically must be members of AASA.

How can I influence what's happening in Washington?
Can we do something to reduce warranty returns?
How can I build stronger relationships with my customers?

KEY

(e) = AASA estimate

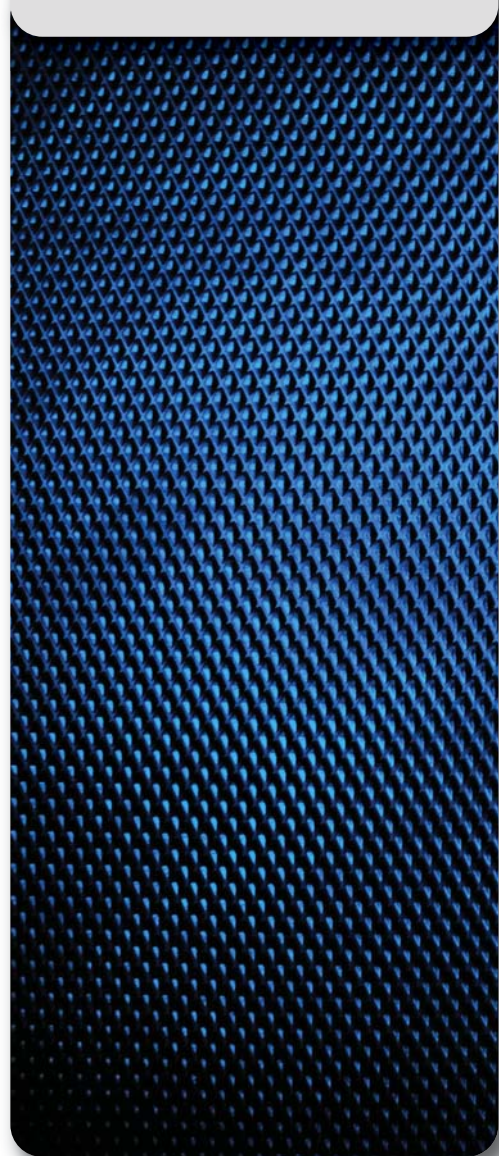

^ = previous year's sales figures

= converted to U.S. Currency

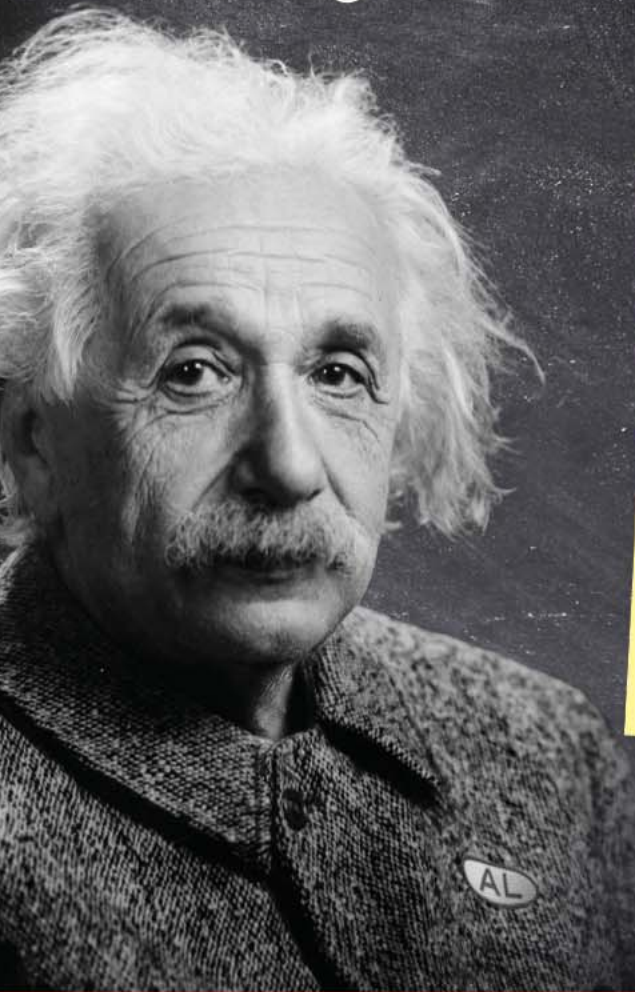

= Identifies AASA members

Ranking for companies included in this year's list is not influenced by membership in AASA or any other MEMA market segments, nor is it influenced by advertising in any Babcox publication. Some numbers have been rounded to maintain consistency. In addition, in some cases, AASA determined the numbers that are marked as estimates. Again this year, the list is ranked by global automotive sales figures; when not provided, the companies included in the numerical listing were ranked by North American aftermarket sales.

BE SYSTEM SMART

Combine belts and tensioners, water pumps and hoses, and use timing component kits for a complete system repair. When components wear, they put the entire system at risk. The best way to prevent costly system failure is to remember the Car Care Council's recommendation. Start inspecting the serpentine, cooling and timing systems at 60K miles, and replace worn components by 90K miles or as advised by the manufacturer.
